The following regulations apply from January 10th, 2021:

Shops, restaurants, cultural and sports facilities

The lockdown decided in December will be extended until January 31st. This means that shops, restaurants, cultural and sports venues remain closed. Schools and daycare centers will also remain closed until the end of January (in accordance with the decision of December 13, 2020).

Child sickness benefit

The federal government grants ten additional days of child sickness benefit per parent and 20 days for single parents. This should also apply if children have to be cared for at home due to daycare centers or schools being closed due to pandemics.

Restriction of freedom of movement

The radius of movement for citizens in hotspots with incidences of over 200 per 100,000 inhabitants per week is to be limited to 15 kilometers around their place of residence. Exceptions need a valid reason.

Valid reasons:

- Sport and exercise in the fresh air
- way to school, work or a voluntary activity
- Appointments with courts and authorities
- visits to the doctor
- Purchases
- Care and care of animals
- Maintaining your own garden, for example in an allotment garden

According to Chancellor Merkel, the place of residence does not mean your private address, but the city in which you live. Berlin as a whole is considered a place of residence. Thus, even with incidences over 200, you can still move freely in Berlin and also drive from Spandau to Marzahn. Berlin is currently at a value of 131.8.

Contact restrictions

Here, too, a significant tightening. In the future, private get-togethers will only be permitted with members of your own household and with a maximum of one other person not living in the household. There is no time-limited curfew like in Brandenburg. However, in Berlin you have to have a valid reason for leaving your own apartment. If you cannot make any credible, it becomes expensive during controls.

Retirement and nursing homes

The staff in old people's and nursing homes should be tested several times a week, but the staffing capacities are often lacking. For more safety in the nursing homes, volunteers should support the staff with quick tests. All residents of inpatient care facilities should receive a vaccination offer by mid-February.

Home office

Employers are encouraged to allow their employees to work from home in an unbureaucratic manner (also to relieve local transport). In particular, travel should be avoided.

Sports

Professional sport will probably continue, so he will probably be able to continue his competitions. Spectators are still excluded. Community training units and competitions are completely prohibited for amateur and popular sports.

Entry from risk areas

Entry should take place with a "two-test strategy". In addition to the existing ten-day quarantine obligation, which can be terminated prematurely as soon as a negative test result from a corona test taken on the fifth day of quarantine at the earliest (regulation here as before), an additional test obligation is now to be introduced upon entry (two-test strategy). The obligation to test upon entry can be met by testing within 48 hours prior to arrival or by testing immediately after entry. In addition, there is still an obligation to register digitally if you come from a risk area.
